"The Hunchback" has prospered at Daly's Theatre much longer than it was expected to do, but it will now have only one more performance, that of to-morrow night. On Tuesday night the second production of Mr. Daiy's old comedy season will be given. It will be "As You Like It." The play is said to be in demand, so that the success of its short revival is assured. It will be kept on the for only one week

At Hammerstein's Harlem Opera House this week A. M. Palmer's stock company will make its first appearance in New York this season. It will n "Alabama," which has now been played seasons in every part of the country. Its protection in Harlem this week is the more interesting from the fact that it will be presented by the original cast, with one or two exceptions, several of the actors who left Mr. Palmer's organizauon at the beginning of the season having recently and it. The cast will include Maurice Barry-J. H. Stoddard, E. M. Holland, Edward Bell, Walden Ramsey, E. F. Abeles, Odell Williams, Miss Jeunie Eustace, Miss Agnes Miller and Mrs. Emily

END OF THE PHILIPPOTEAUX SALE.

The third and last day's sale of the studio and household effects of Paul Philippoteaux took place vesterday afternoon at James P. Silo's auction room, No. 43 Liberty-st. It was fairly well attended, but the bidding was slow, and most of the lots offered attracted but little attention. The receipts for the day amount-d to $2,592.50, making a total for the entire collection of $26,242.50. The highest price paid resterday was $200, for the "Galeries Historiques de Versailles," a series of sixteen volumes profusely in 1838. It was bought by Edward Brandins. The same purchaser and J. M. Allen each bought a number of albums of drawings and water colors. A water color by Saunler was bought by A. A. Howlett for $50, and most of the other prices realized were small. illustrated with steel plates and published in Paris

A NEW MANSION OF WAR.

TO BE THE ARMORY OF THE TIST REGIMENT.

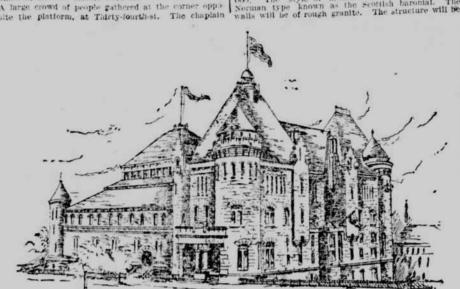

GRANT-DESCRIPTION OF THE BUILDING. The cornerstone of the new armory of the 71st tegiment in Fourth-ave, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth sts., was laid yesterday at 10:30 a.m. by Mayor Grant. Besides being the home of the regiment, the new building will house the Second Battery, the Signal Corps and the First Brigade headquarters. Owing to a number of causes the ceremonles had been postponed several times. They were es-

Prince of Rumania while in Europe. His principal writings are "The Russian Army and Its Campaigns in Turkey in 1877-78," "Army Life in Russia" and "The Mississippi" of Scribner's series of campaigns of the Civil War. Referring to his book, "The Rus-sian Army," "The London Times" said: "His book stamps him as a military historian of the first class." The second Brigade had its origin in the Washing-Light Battery in 1833, and has taken an active t in quelling many disturbances and fought well in the Civil War.

The first story of the outer wall of the armory is no finished and most of the inner walls are already tw stories high. The building, which was begun la April, will cost about $55.0,300, and the hand cost $437.000. The style of architecture is a phase of th Norman type known as the Scottish baronial. The walls will be of rough granite. The structure will be uniform, and the officers were also in civilian's dress.

Enker, Lieutenant Entes, Quartermaster Coleman Major Marsh, Capinin Erdman, Capinins Clark, Tilden, Whittle and Keck, of the 71st Regiment.

The 71st Regiment had its birth in 1849. At that time, at a convention of the Order of United Ameri ans, it was decided to organize a purely American egiment. The four componies thus called together were made part of the 1st Regiment of New-York. Colonel Vosburg took command of the regiment in 1852. It was called the "American Guard" at that time, and as late as 1863 admitted only native-born Americans. The regiment was and called out for the sepoy War" on Staten Island, when the citizens bejected to the establishment of the Quarantine Station there. When the regiment was known as the Light Guards, in the "Dead Rabbit" riots, it captured the loaded howitzers from the "Bowers Boys."

The regiment was again active in 1861, and at the first battle of Bull Run it lost about 10 per cent of its number, leaving the field, however, in good order It also fought at the second battle of finil Run, and, in 1863, to resist General Lee in Pennsylvania, it went to the front for thirty days. Then it was sent to this city to subdue the draft riots. The 71st Regiment was on duty in 1871 and in 1877, and in kept up its good reputation at Buffalo last summer Colonel Francis Vinton Greene took commend of the Regiment last February. He is well known in the Regular Army and is a writer on military attairs. He was born at Providence on Jane 27, 1850, and is a descendant of John Greene, debuty-governor of Rhode Idand. In 1870 he was graduated from West Point at the head of a class of fifty-eight and was appointed second-fleutenant in the 4th Regiment of the United States Artillery. He remained in the Army until 1886, when he resigned and entered private life. While in the service he was appointed assistant astronomer and surveyor on the International Commission for the survey of the northern boundary of the United States from the Lake of the strong enough to resist attacks of street mobs. The haliding is 200 feet by 237. Its front stretches from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth-st. It consists of an executive building, which faces Fourth-ave, and the armory proper. The Second Battery will be lodged in the lassement of the armory proper, where it will have a drill room of 150 by 200 feet of clear space. On the next floor are the drillroom and the executive offices of the 71st Regiment. A method of construction was used which did away with supporting columns in the drillroom, which thus has 200 feet square of clear space.
